Here One Day
Liane Moriarty
On an ordinary domestic flight, something extraordinary happens: people learn how and when they will die. For some, death is distant —age 103!—and they laugh. But for six passengers, their predicted deaths are not far away at all.

Death of Dora Black
Lainie Anderson
Summer, Adelaide, 1917. Policewoman Kate Cocks is a household name, but when shop assistant Dora Black is found dead on a city beach, and Dora's workmate goes missing soon after, can Kate solve the mystery before another death occurs?

Just Don't Be a Dkhead
Kasey Chambers
A whirlwind of great stories and rock-solid life lessons, from outback childhood to chart-topping success. Trusting her gut, sticking to her values, and learning some hard truths, Kasey tries to live by the simple motto: just don't be a dkhead.

The Blue Sisters
Coco Mellors

The three estranged siblings of the Blue family, each very different from one another, return to their family home in New York after their beloved sister's death in this unforgettable story of grief, identity, and the complexities of family.

Art Hour at the Duchess Hotel
Sophie Green

Sophie Green, top ten bestselling author of The Bellbird River and Country Choir and Weekends with the Sunshine Gardening Society, returns with a warm-hearted new novel about friendship, fresh starts, and finding yourself.

Cherrywood
Jock Serong
1916: A Scotsman builds a paddle-steamer in Melbourne from European cherrywood. 1993: Melbourne pub, The Cherrywood, becomes an obsession for a lonely lawyer as she seeks to learn its secrets. A puzzle box of a novel, this is delicious, rich storytelling.

The Echoes
Evie Wyld

Recently deceased, Max is now a ghost, trying to understand why he remains. He watches his girlfriend, Hannah, lost in grief in their flat, and begins to realize how much of her life was invisible to him.

Have You Eaten?
Verna Gao

Verna Gao shares her all-time favorite Asian-inspired recipes. From 10-minute creamy peanut noodles that bring simplicity and peace, to soothing congee for comfort, and exquisitely plump dumplings perfect for joyful potluck parties, discover dishes to satisfy every mood and occasion.

Material World
Ed Conway

Sand, iron, salt, oil, copper, lithium. Mining in 2017 surpassed all levels seen before 1950. Our consumption of these essential materials has skyrocketed—our modern world would not exist without them. The hidden battle to control these resources will shape our future.

Carnal fugues
Catherine
McNamara

A scintillating collection of stories about love gone both wrong and right, featuring a cast of characters from around the world. Each tale leaves the reader wanting more while eager to explore the next set of characters in exotic locations.

The Long Island Compromise
Taffy Brodesser-Akner

An exhilarating novel about one American family, the dark moment that shatters their suburban paradise, and the wild legacy of trauma and inheritance, from the New York Times bestselling author of Fleishman Is in Trouble.

The Borrowed Life of Frederick Fife
Rachel Hawkins

For readers of Remarkably Bright Creatures and A Man Called Ove, this warm, life-affirming debut tells the story of a quirky case of mistaken identity that gives a lonely old man one last chance to be part of a family.

Velocity Weapon
Megan O'Keefe

Space battles, intergalactic politics, and rogue AI collide in the first book of this sci-fi trilogy, as siblings Sanda and Brian Greeve struggle to prevent war and recapture a sentient enemy warship that has gone rogue.

Wake
Shelley Burr

Nineteen years ago, Evelyn McCreery disappeared from an outback town. Her sister Mina still lives with the trauma, while true-crime obsessives seek her out. When PI Lane Holland gets involved, she is hopeful—but Holland has motivations of his own.

Summerwater
Sarah Moss

Twelve holiday cabins near a Scottish loch. Relentless rain means the occupants stay inside. Their individual stories gradually unfold as they wait, but each is aware of the nearby cabins. Something is about to go very wrong.
